Grades 7-8 Homework & Late Work Policy

The Gr. 7-8 Homework and Late Work Policy is to assist Middle School students in the transition from the elementary policy to the high school policy – which is that late work is not accepted. The Gr. 7-8 Homework and Late Work Policy is as follows:

When are Homework Assignments Due?
Homework assignments are due at the beginning of class, before instruction begins, and are late if they are not finished and turned in then. It is your job to turn in your work (following the correct procedure for that assignment and class) – not the Teacher's to tell you to do so. If you are tardy, turn in your assignment to the teacher as soon as you arrive in the classroom.

Late Assignments:
If a student has a late assignment the parent will be notified by the method they indicated. Late work that is turned in no later than the beginning of the next class period the school day after the assignment was due, will be accepted for a reduced grade no higher than 75%. If the late work is not turned in then, the student will attend the next Learning Center. A late assignment that is completed in Learning Center will receive a grade no higher than 50%. A late assignment that is not completed in Learning Center will receive a grade of zero. If the student does not attend Learning Center, the late assignment will receive a grade of zero. Remember that it is better to turn in late work while you are still able to receive some credit than to receive a zero for not turning any work in.

Learning Center:
Will take place after school on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:05 until 4:00 p.m. Arriving late to Learning Center will result in the student receiving a zero for the late assignment.

Incomplete Work:
Work that is handed in incomplete but more than half-finished will be graded as is, with no credit given for the incomplete portion. Work that is handed in less than half finished will not be accepted. This is late work and will be treated as such.

Our family (student and all parents/parental units) have read and understand the policy above.
